Thank you for the additional archery opportunity, and I want to also say that I support the proposal UAA will suggest regarding the Book Cliffs archery bison hunts.

The following is an email I sent to all of you. I'm attaching it here so that it can be part of the public record for the Northern RAC.

Hello all,

With the upcoming RAC meetings, this is a prime time to write this email.

I'll express my thoughts about division proposals through the division's website.

I will also attach this email to one of those comments so that it's included in the public feedback.

In addition to attaching this to my comments for the Northern Region RAC meeting, I'm also emailing this to all RAC and Board members as well as members of the UAA, RMEF, SFW, and MDF... I hope by doing so that those organizations will stand behind me in support of what I'm about to propose.

Before I go any further, I want to thank you for the work you do.

You get a lot of flack, and I want you to know that there are many of us that appreciate the time you take out of your life.

Over the last year or so, I have had many great, and helpful conversations with Covy Jones.

In one such conversation, I brought up this particular idea... and unlike many of my past ideas--he actually thought this one had some merit, though it needs to be properly vetted through the division's processes.

I had planned to bring it up last year, but with the mule deer plan on the agenda, it didn't feel right.

This round probably isn't even better, but dang it, there probably isn't a "great" time.

Just to give you an idea of how serious I am about this...

If in-person meetings were "a thing" right now, I would be planning a statewide tour of every RAC meeting.

Seriously, I would rent a hotel in 4 different cities to make sure I had my 3 minutes in front of each of you personally.

One last thing before I get right to it...

I do NOT expect an immediate change... this is something I want the board to put on the ACTION LOG... my goal is to get the DWR to formally put this forward through the entire process again at the request of the board.

If committees, surveys, and the like are needed, I want them to happen.

Let's talk archery elk hunting in Utah then...

EVERY year, I hear people complain that archers don't get to hunt elk during the rut... even the "professional" hunters talk about it on their podcasts.

And it's true, but for good reason... our LE units are managed by harvested age class, and frankly, I don't want to change that.

You can't get the oldest bull on the landscape with a bow... it isn't going to happen "on the average", so I'm not talking about changing our LE units.

Let's keep the LE and Spike archery seasons exactly as they are right now.

... phew... just enjoy that breath of fresh air.

Now that the oxygen has been restored to the room, we can address General Season Any Bull units.

There's absolutely no reason we can't have the archery extend into the rut on the any bull GS units.

(Not biologically, and really, not socially either)

Here's some dates to make it a little more clear... (This is based on 2021 dates)

Archery Deer Season: August 21 - Sept 17

Archery Spike Elk: August 21 - Sept 10

Archery Any Bull Elk: August 21 - Sept 26

As you can see, I'm suggesting we extend the any bull general season dates by 9 days.

I originally thought to simply move the opening date forward by 9 days, but a season extension creates much less confusion.

I know, I know, there's a youth any bull rifle season from the 18th-26th of September on those units... yep, sure is, let's keep it.

I personally spoke to 40+ people that had either hunted it with their kids, or kids that had hunted it with their parents...

From my totally non-scientific survey, the results were split 50/50.

Most of the opposed had one of two reactions...

- 1) What about hunter orange for the archers?
- 2) "But the children"?!

Let me address each of these objections specifically...

- 1) Our current structure WOULD NOT require archers to wear hunter orange...

I know I would if I was hunting in an area that could potentially have a 12 year old bearing down on a bull I'm 10 yards away from and he's 400 yards... yep, orange for me.

Maybe a little bit of encouragement from outreach would do the trick?

Requiring it would certainly muddy the waters.

- 2) As a father of 3 (19, 17, & 15), I can tell you that elk hunting is ABSOLUTELY NOT a tool for hunter recruitment. (neither is duck hunting unless you have a boat with heaters, an unlimited supply of snacks, and an X-Box on board)

As one of the youth that I spoke to told me, (I'll try to quote)... "The youth elk hunt is used by parents the same way the youth duck hunt is... it's a chance to scout for their hunt, and maybe their kid will kill something along the way"

That's seriously what this kid said... and he's an elk and duck hunting NUT!

I'm not saying this to take away the great opportunity we're giving these kids.

It would be silly to let this youth hunt sway you from allowing archers in the field at the same time.

One last point on that... when do kids get to hunt during late September?

The weekend... that's pretty much it.

Sure, some parents make a big deal about it and take the kid out of school for the entire 9 days... good for them! (wear orange archers!)

That ONE hunt is the only thing standing in the way of this idea.

For the archers reading this, yes, I am absolutely extending your season for elk by 9 days, you're welcome to get behind me on this... the any weapon GS elk hunt is 14 days, why not have archery for 36?

If you actually managed to read this far, thank you very much... I don't know how I'd distill this down to a 3 minute comment at a RAC meeting. (I'm sure I'd find a way)

If you want to, you're welcome to reply to this email with questions/comments.

If you'd like to speak personally, please give me a call.

It would be wise to text me first... or just leave a voicemail when I don't answer.

Thanks for taking the time to read my long winded diatribe.

Do you have any additional comments about these proposals or amendments?

I oppose the unlimited any bull elk permits. It isn't about families getting out hunting together or tradition. It's about the Dwr selfish money grabbers. The elk herd need to be managed not decimated. Reduce elk tags in all hunting seasons and weapons so elk numbers and successfully healthy elk herds are restored. We feed more sheep and cattle when the elk herds need the food. This is an asinine proposal.

Do you have any additional comments about the mule deer unit plans?

The deer herd in Utah need to be managed better. Less tags sold for each season and weapon choice. We need healthy deer populations back. We feed more sheep and cattle than deer what deer need to be healthy. Our wildlife need that food and forage. Close the free range sheep and cattle. And do a better job and increase management of predators. These tag increases are asinine.

Decrease deer permits and hunt permits for each weapon and season. We need better buck to doe ratios. And fawn health. And do a better job and increase manage of predators. On top of stopping free range sheep and cattle. We feed more sheep and cattle than what our wildlife need to sustain. The wildlife need that food and forage.

*Unlimited any bull tags isn't the solution when the majority of those bulls are on private ground. It's only an added revenue stream.
A compromise would be to eliminate spike elk hunts for unlimited any bull tags *Put a cap/limit on number of state allowed CWMUs.
Offer more incentives for private land owners to give access to hunters.

Let's quit killing doe deer on the extended archery hunt.

Let us all understand that with increased predator pressure/tags, along with "realistic objective changes" for mule deer,

No new CWMU or LOA.

It is unconscionable that this state continues its march towards total corporate hunting.

CWMU was never intended to be a land lease via outfitter program. It was intended to be for a LANDOWNER. There are almost 0 CWMU run by the landowner. STOP finding ways to lock out the public while expanding corporate hunting

Don't make any bull tags unlimited! There are too many hunters in those units now. Because of the age I started hunting I will likely never get to hunt in one of the premium units due to point creep. I don't want LESS opportunity and more competition for the elk hunt I can participate in.

The dates look like a good option but the thing that concerns me is the unlimited elk tags for rifle. There will be so many hunters that it will decrease the success rate for the hunts. This is more of a money grab than anything. How about you do a draw system for 20,000 tags instead of making it unlimited.

I do not support making unlimited General Season-Any Bull tags. There is already significant pressure on the few elk that are found on public land in the General Season areas. It seems that the majority of the elk on these units are found on Private Land, and the majority of the successful hunters are harvesting elk off the Private. Success rates are low at best, as is. When the majority of the elk harvested are off Private, that will drive the pressure of animals on public even higher, and plummet the success rates of Public Land hunters even lower. Our party has hunted the Multi season HARD this year, in the Uinta Range, during all of the seasons, and are yet to have an opportunity to harvest a bull, when typically one person will at least get a chance.

I am afraid that by creating unlimited tags, there will be fewer elk and more disgruntled hunters in the long run.

Maybe consider creating a Private Land Only option for an increase of elk tag sales.

Thanks for your time and consideration.

I oppose the amendment to increase general any bull tags to an unlimited amount.
i. Expand opportunity for families
ii. Strengthen ties to our hunting heritage
iii. Provide a challenge - not an easy hunt
I believe all these objectives are already reached in the general units and issuing an unlimited amount of tags would only degrade the hunting and enthusiasm of hunters in these regions.

We need to close the state for deer hunting for 3-5 years and let the herds rebuild. At least cut the tags in half and take scopes away from muzzleloader. Over hunting is the reason our herds are suffering. Utah has been in a drought for decades.

I believe the board needs to recognize that numerous hunters in Utah already feel like there is a bias in how tags are drawn/issued. Creating yet another avenue of perceived bias by creating a permitting process for permanent blinds doesn't align with the idea that the bias wouldn't occur. Allowing for permanent blinds also allows for the potential of significant degrees of conflict between armed individuals over perceived ownership of such blinds where enforcement officers whom are already stretched thin, would essentially be responding to "civil" disputes.

I think the permanent blinds are a terrible precedent and something that will benefit the few rich club members. It would create one more mechanism for big money to squeeze out the public land freelancers-the key demographic in increasing hunter retention and recruitment.

Absolutely against unlimited any bull elk tags, adding the units was a nice touch to try and justify it but it just doesn't make it worth it. With the booming population of this state and the cluster that was created trying to get a tag for 2020, these tags need to go to preference point system and be kept capped at 15,000. If it is a revenue thing I'm more than willing to spend more on an any bull tag as I have been purchasing them every year since inception, with the exception of this year due to your server glitch.

More needs to be done on the Box Elder unit. In the last two to three years this unit has been in a nose dive, I believe the massive war on Cedar/Juniper trees in the name of Sage Grouse has massively affected the wintering ability of the mule deer on this unit. Also being a serious predator hunter I will attest that the coyote population currently has nothing to do with this, massive aerial gunning, trapping and low rabbit numbers have severely lowered the population of coyotes. Along with that there are several areas where there is a high number of highway mortality that I believe needs to be addressed as well. This "opportunity" unit is not healthy and there is far fewer deer on this unit than there should be.

You don't even follow your own rules when setting up CWMU's. Skull Valley is not contiguous, I don't believe any public land should be included in ANY CWMU to make a definably boundary in todays day and age. There are plenty of tools available to hunters today that allow you to know exactly where you are. If a landowner doesn't have the acreage there should be no CWMU. It also appears (without seeing a map) the the Hereford Assoc. is being divided into two more CWMU's to allow for an additional 10 tags over and above what the currently get. LOA tags should be dropped significantly, to receive these tags I believe you must allow public hunters to access your land without trespass fee and if you sell a landowner tag that hunter must hunt the private land only.

I am against the proposal to allow permanent blinds in the Willard Spur area. This is not a good move by the UT DWR and will create issues going forward. Public hunting on public lands must be preserved by the state of Utah. Favoring private groups to accommodate their proposals violates the right of the citizens of Utah and the general public. In addition permanent blinds will damage habitat for migratory birds. Permanent blinds in the state of Utah should remain only on private lands except in extreme cases. An extreme case would be blind access for disabled hunters. Please feel free to contact me with any questions that you may have. Kevin Anderson 435-512-4212

All the units need to increase the buck to doe ratios. We are only killing more and more deer that are not there. Your biologist see 100 deer in the field and say there are this many doe and this many bucks and then times that by the amount of land in the region to get the numbers. This is garbage and they are not doing there jobs. All the hunters will tell you the same thing. There are not the animals that they clam there are. Fix it!

This is honestly one of the worst options I have seen Utah wildlife department come up with in my 35 years of hunting. Increasing tag like this will not improve the hunting experience. The success rate is already a low. I'd rather hunt every couple years and see more animals. As opposed to hunting every year and seeing only a giant mob of orange in the landscape. I personally feel this is nothing more than a money grab. A way to sale more tags with little to no consideration for actual wildlife management.

I don't oppose permanent blinds but I do feel if they are built by the public then those who got the permit to build it will feel a sense of entitlement to those blinds they built. Which could cause some serious problems in the marsh if someone made it to those blinds first. With that I also believe it would end up pushing us more toward having to wait in lines forever to try and receive a permanent blind on any given day to eliminate the entitlement people would feel. Could even possibly push toward being charged to use them is my worry. It would just be more regulation on top of a lot of regulation already there for waterfowl.

The unlimited elk permit idea has got to be one of the worst ideas I've ever heard. The division needs extra revenue; I agree. But that IS NOT the place to get it. The elk numbers are awful and there should honestly be fewer tags given out. Why don't you try and cut the number of general season tags and cut the late season cow tags and let people know that you're doing it for conservation to help the population and ask for donations to compensate the revenue loss? I bet you'd be surprised to see how many real sportsmen/women are out there and would do it. Giving unlimited elk tags is obviously for revenue and not considering what it would do to the population. This is very obvious to the public.

- I think the hunt dates are better than they have been and am in support of them
- The new any-bull elk units are great. More general units are much needed.
- I am opposed to unlimited any-bull tags. If more opportunity is desired, there are many options other than that. Such as using a Colorado method for managing numbers of hunters and the opportunity to get tags. Multiple 5 or 7-day rifle seasons would aid in balancing opportunity and quality hunting. The reason I am opposed is that the quality of the hunts I have experienced in my archery elk hunts has dramatically decreased since the multi-season tags were made available. Distance from trailheads doesn't seem to make much difference. Defining our terms is important. When I hear the word "opportunity" from the DWR, I'm hearing the opportunity to buy a tag. When I think "opportunity" I think of the opportunity for a successful hunt. I don't see the proposal sell unlimited tags as something that will increase success.

I do not think it is a good idea to have Unlimited Any Bull tags. I understand the challenge you are facing, given how many people tried to get a tag this year, but I can see two things happening as a result. First, I think the "elk" woods will become a lot busier. This will include food traffic, ATV traffic, Camper trailer traffic, etc. Part of the reason we hunt is to connect with nature. It is a lot harder to do if they feel busy and competitive. It will create more hunts, but more mediocre hunts, and people will not be happy. The second is that there will be less mature bulls on Any Bull hunts. People will kill young bulls, and the only option for mature bulls will be limited entry hunts, which are already such a long, hard, time consuming process to get. Most hunters will only ever have the shot at getting 2 limited entry bull hunts in a lifetime. Please do not make this change. There are OTHER ways to make it more "fair." Points, can't have it 4 years in a row, etc. are all ways to divvy it up. Or, consider going up to 17,500 tags. Something like that. But don't do unlimited.

I agree being against it for the reason of how inconsiderate the clubs are driving there boats 30-40 yards off other hunters spreads all day putting hunters in there box blinds wile your 80 yards away in a frag island and I've had 2 encounters in the early morning where I've been cut off by club boats as I am going 25+ mph and they get close enough that I could throw a shell through there prop or hit them with my boat if I didn't let out of the throttle not to mention wile I'm getting sprayed by water off there prop in early December with it being a warming 30 degrees out. It's public land And to favor 2 clubs over the hole state is ridiculous that don't Benefit the public one bit. Sure they help out with broke down boats towing them in but anyone els out there would do the same so you can't favor them on that but I do respect them on that aspect of things. I've met a few of them that are great guys I just don't agree with clubs running on public land.

I oppose the recommendations and the R657-9 amendments regarding R657-9-34 note 3 of the document allowing permanent blinds on the Willard Spur waterfowl management area. Allowing for private parties to gain permits to build permanent blinds allows for entitlement to land on public property. The selection process of hunting a blind that was built by a private party on a first come first serve basis creates multiple challenges to the public. The Willard spur has many places that allow for concealment of passing waterfowl without a permanent blind. Allowing permanent blinds undermines the rich history of waterfowl hunting in the state of Utah.

I oppose the building of permanent blinds on a designated WMA. I understand that there are clubs who are grandfathered in with their blinds but oppose the opportunity for new blinds to be constructed. This will open the door to other WMA blinds and then blind draws.

Nontoxic shot should be mandatory on the spur as it is a waterfowl area and the retrieval zone has already been done.

-I approve of the changes to the general season deer dates.

-I approve of the changes to the general season elk dates.

-I strongly oppose unlimited any bull any weapon and muzzleloader tags. This is insanity. This doesn't create more opportunity for hunters. All this will is selling a tag to hunters to walk around the woods with a tag and not see a thing. You said it provides the challenge the any bull hunts are already very challenging. Hunters want quality opportunity. This proposal appears to be a money grab by the division. If anything there should be a tag cut to 13,000 and add those same new any bull units and disperse the hunters throughout the units more to have a higher quality hunt. This proposal is so aggravating.

-If the division was really worried about keeping family traditions of hunting and hunter recruitment they would manage the limited entry elk units for quantity not quality. Why does Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, and Arizona have better opportunities to hunt branch antlered bulls for NONRESIDENTS than Utah does for their own RESIDENTS?

-Is the age objective really working on the Cache, South? The limited entry tags keep getting cut year after year. You add private land cow tags. Still hunting spikes and public land cow tags. I would like to see the same changes to the Cache, South as the Cache, North temporarily until the population can bounce back.

-If the Parker/Plateau Pronghorn aren't using the plateau stop hunting them so hard. Decrease the tags.

-This comment is for everything. I know you have a girl that is in charge of watching social media and forums, Amy. The general vibe I am seeing on Facebook Groups, Instagram, and forums like Monster Muleys and Utahwildlife.net is that the Utah Division of Wildlife is doing a very poor job at managing our big game. Hunters aren't just unhappy about this proposal but they are unhappy with a lot of things that are happening. There is frustration that residents and nonresidents of the other surrounding states have better opportunities than Utah does.

-The Cache unit was very disappointing this year. I hunt in the dedicated hunter program on the Cache. I've had the tag for the last 9 years. I've seen several does with the GPS collars on. This year I've seen lots of fawns. It seems like there are lots of twins. I even saw a set of triplets. Is there anything additional being done to help the units have more deer?

I am really not a fan of how CWMUs are operated. Deer and Elk should be a 70/30 split. The CWMU operators need to be held more accountable to treating the public hunters fair.

SJ Ranch does not have the minimum acreage required to have moose and elk permits. Why do they have elk and moose permits? If there is an exception for them they should have a 70/30 split on their elk tags.

These comments are in regards to the North cache limited entry unit. Yes I do agree that the archery dates should be change so hunters have a better opportunity to hunt bulls during the rut. But then switching to shotgun, hand gun and muzzloader is a bad idea because of the dates. From October 1 to November 15 most of the Elk start to migrate out of the North cache unit either to the South cache or down into the really thick and nasty areas. Your hunters will have meager harvest and be dissatisfied. Once the spike hunt starts on the North cache unit most the elk either run to Idaho or down into Cottonwood where it's very steep nasty and hard access. I have been running trail cameras on this unit for six years once the spike hunt starts my camera show very little Elk for the rest of the year. Not to mention those dates that you want to hunt with are at the end of the rut very hard to get close with the weapons that you recommended. You will get of wounded animals and frustrated hunters. Your current management plan on the North cache has actually slowly been improving the age class of the bulls and the population since you have reduced permits has been coming back each year. I know one common problem is people think all of the Elk go to Utah this is simply not true. At least not during the limited entry hunt I have pictures of Bulls year after year returning to the same drainage is to rut from Cottonwood to bubbles Springs to Tony's Grove Franklin basin Road to Swan Peak and the Bear Lake bench. Please leave the north cache as it is with no change or just a change in the archery. Dates
My recommendation
Archery September 1-25
Early rifle September 26-31
Muzzloader October 1-8
Late rifle November 7-14

I am opposed to the Unlimited Any Bull Tags! The herds have enough pressure as it is, I would say if this is the case then you need to specify when you buy the tag which Any Bull area you will hunt and also there needs to be a cap on the amount of Multi-Season tags available if there are unlimited tags. I would recommend changing the Wasatch unit to an Any Bull unit to help spread out the hunters or even make it OTC but you have to choose one weapon to hunt with if you are trying to create more opportunity. Also if you do go with Unlimited Any Bull tags make it so the youth can buy OTC the "Youth Any Bull" tag so they don't have to draw it and make it available every year until they turn 18.

The plans for unlimited bull tags is a thinly veiled attempt to sell as many tags as possible and fill the coffers money at the expense of Utah elk. Elk management in Utah is already notoriously poor, and somehow this is a new low. Colorado has reaped the fruit of their poor management and have transitioned from OTC to capped tags in many units. Utah is proposing to do the opposite, with a fraction of the total number of elk. You will decimate populations for years to come with this poor excuse for management. I haven't hunted Utah in a decade due to the poor management and hunt quality on public lands. All you are doing is driving hunters to other states that have better management, better hunt quality, and healthier elk herds.

The original language in the bill that protected the spur was that traditional activities on the spur would be protected. The Pintail Club has been hunting the boxes they have since the 50's. This is as traditional as any activity that takes place on the spur. I don't care if someone constructs a blind out there. However everyone needs to understand the blind once left can be used by anyone. I have heard a lot of stories about what the Pintail Club has "done" to someone. I had a guy tell me a story about something they did to him, when in fact I was driving the boat on that day and can attest to the fact it did not happen. People have hunted in the Pintail boxes and not been kicked out. Because the rules are that they can if the structure is there. So I support allowing the structures, it is also a good test potentially for other areas as well. The structures that exist there now have never been an issue. The people I hear complain are people that generally are jealous of the access and ability to hunt out of the boxes, with no real teeth to the argument, other than "they don't like it." Or "it's a hazard." When it has never been a hazard for those that have been hunting it for decades.

I am an avid hunter who gets off the beaten path to hunt primitive areas for opportunity at larger animals. Unit 4,5,6 has drastically gone down hill over the past 5 years. I muzzle load hunt this unit every year and for the past 5 years I have not taken a buck because of quality. I used to be able to pick a canyon and find a good four point buck to hunt. I haven't seen a four point buck in three years of hunting. In fact, the last two years I have only seen a handful of yearling bucks. This year, I saw zero bucks in four days of hunting! But saw hunters everywhere, almost like the rifle season is every year. So to confirm my suspicions, I tagged along with a rifle hunter friend. We saw 25 does on the opener and zero bucks. I saw over 3 dozen hunters as well. I spoke with a dwr officer about my observations and her response was "There are still plenty of deer on this unit. We have not met objective yet." What is objective? Extinction????!! Please fix this problem! Less tags! Less hunts! Primitive muzzleloaders! Take out that stupid early rifle hunt and only have a five day rifle hunt! Make it a 3 point or better unit! I cannot tell you how many yearlings I have seen killed on this unit over the past five years! Let them grow up! Let them replenish the herds! Please listen to the voice of an avid hunter! You are ruining this area!

I have talked with numerous hunters while out and about and their stories and observations are consistent with my experiences. We desire change for the better of the herd. Please do not just look at the deer herds from a biologist viewpoint. Please listen to the hunters who actually see the declining trends in mule deer quality. I am so frustrated that I will not take vacation to hunt deer anymore in this state. My time off work is valued far more than to spend it looking for a buck that does not exist.

Thank you for listening to a very concerned hunter.

Regards,

Crispin Cooper

I am honestly for all other changes and proposals OTHER than moving to doing unlimited any bull unit tags. I'm against this because it only increases and makes hard any bull units that much more difficult. There is no way in Units such as the Kamas and North Slope, there are enough bulls in those units to justify these changes. I understand if populations in other units may suggest this, but I reiterate, you're making hard and difficult hunts that much harder by removing the cap on tags for any bull units.

I totally opposed to whats being proposed for elk. 10, 20 years ago. We filled anywhere from 60 to 100% of our spike tags every year. In the last 10 years, we have killed a total of three spikes. You have ruined our elk units. The amount of cow tags your giving out, Have amplified our herds size dropping to the lowest numbers I've seen since the 80s. Elk herd's are down worse than I've ever seen. In the last five years, worse every year to the next to the next to this year being pathetic. I am an avid hunter in northern Utah, grew up in the mountains. I've had amazing success rates. You guys have destroyed that. Hit up the state of Utah and legislation to start giving you guys money from taxes. Stop running everything off of the money you're making off of tag sales. You're thinking and reasoning do not equal good or quality management. It equals quite the opposite. Whatever you were doing back between 2000 and 2010, was working. And then you've destroyed it the last 10 years. My 40 years of hunting elk, comes from the Cache unit.

I am in favor of the non-toxic shot rule on Willard Spur as well as the retrieval zone at Farmington Bay. I have concerns about building permanent blinds on Willard Spur. It has been my experience at several WMA's that people believe that if they build a blind it is their spot even though blinds are first come first serve. I believe the addition of more permanent blinds will only increase tensions in the marsh and decrease hunter enjoyment. Please do not allow this to happen at Willard Spur.

The North Cache Unit is still a great limited entry unit. The mature bulls will be decimated after the first year of unlimited tags. Then all of the hunters putting in for that unit will just pick the next closest limited entry with their points and it will be that much more difficult to draw a premium tag. It's nice to say there will be more opportunities, the reality is there will be less opportunity for all. Thanks for letting me comment

I do not agree with giving unlimited elk tags in the any bull areas. This area of any bull region is already giving out to many tags, I have hunted in this region for the last 35 years and have never seen the number of elk that the division says that is there. First off these any bull regions are closest to the most populated cities in the state, these regions are already over ran with anyone in the salt lake valley that has an ATV especially during the rifle season. . If you go a little farther south where it is spike only the herds are much bigger and chances of seeing elk are far better. There is no reason why the high uintah mountain ranges do not have the population of elk as the regions a little further south. The only conclusion I can come to is that there are too many tags given out for the region , there is just as good of feed and water in the high uintahs for elk as any other region in the state ,there is no reason why this shouldn't be a trophy elk area for the state . It is ridiculous to give out unlimited tags for the region if anything we need to cut back tags and quit selling cow tags for a few years in this region . Why can't we make this area a coveted place to draw an elk tag. Also I would like to adress the season dates for limited entry elk hunts. Why are we giving archery hunters the middle of August until the first of September which is pre rut and then give the rifle hunters prime rut of these regions, this seems totally backwards to me . Back in 2008 I drew a limited entry elk tag after 8 years , I hunted for 23 days and was uncessfull, the average temp during most the hunt was very warm it was almost impossible to find elk , they were pretty much nocturnal and not being in the rut made the hunting very tough , especially for an archery hunt, why are archery hunts not during prime rut and the rifle is , this doesn't seem to make sense for hunters or the elk herds. All the other western states have the archery hunt during the rut and the rifle hunts later. I feel like I wasted points for a limited hunt. I want to have a chance to hunt bull elk with a bow during the rut. I feel that dates set for the archery elk hunt set you up to fail and take your points , I can't see ever putting my points to an archery elk hunt again in Utah. I have been currently trying to draw for out of state archery elk tags for this reason. This really frustrating when I live in a state with great elk but back █ward dates for archery and rifle seasons. Thanks for hopefully someone listening , Thanks Trent Christensen

North cache should be left alone- bad move - it's hard to find a bull over 300" in the north cache as a LE unit- with these changes there will be nothing left-
Why don't u cut the LE tag numbers and build the quality back to what it was 15 years ago? I live in Richmond and walk these mountains year around - felt like finally last year or two there are some better bulls here and there, make these changes and it just a rag hunt, just like 10 miles to The north in Idaho were is general elk hunt -rag 5 herd bulls that get slaughtered opening morning - at least let me sell my elk points before u make the changes , I only buy them so some day maybe I can draw the north cache and hunt the elk I watch year around - now I don't need them if Changes are made-not a fan

With the ever changing water levels of the spur and the increasing amount of the public using the spur. I strongly disagree with the Permanent Blind Proposal. #1 reason is SAFETY CONCERNS. With the blinds out there now you really need to know exactly where they are. On a good water year there are quite a few blinds that are submerged and can be a can opener to any boat out there. It scares the living [REDACTED] out of me to be out there late season in frigid temps and worry about breaking down or hitting something under the surface and sinking my boat. If you add more blinds the chance's will skyrocket and so will the accidents. I sure do not want to make the news, and I sure don't want to be a statistic??? #2 it doesn't matter what the rules are there are people who think they own the place and if you approve them to build permanent blinds you are just asking for problems. By the way all of them are carrying firearms. You will have issues with them locking them, then people destroying them?? This is a total recipe for disaster!!! I do agree with shooting non toxic ammo out there.

I've hunted both deer and the last several years and have had some good success. The last 2 years I've seen such a drastic decline in the buck and bull numbers. I truly thing the last thing we should do is increase tags. I've talked this over with my hunting partners and several friends that are guides and biologists. My thoughts are we need to get rid of spike tags ( I fully understand they are a good source of income) and make the elk units a 5 point or better units and raise the price of tags to compensate for the profit loss of spike tags. As for the deer we need to decrease permits as well. It was ridiculous how many hunters were out for the general season this year. We hunted 5 straight days and only saw 3 two point bucks. I would suggest we make the majority of general buck units 4 point or better units. That way we give the little bucks a chance to grow and there would be a ton more bucks. All I saw killed this year were spikes and 2 points. I really appreciate all that the DWR is doing and I like there's a ton of hard work and research going into this but we need to put our focus on the animals not the bottom profit line for the state. Raise the price of tags rather than increase the number of tags.

Permanent Blinds on the Willard Spur will be a disastrous plan. The 2 current airboat clubs already run the Willard Spur and adjacent areas of the Bear River Bird Refuge like it's their own private club. This unique wetland is for all of us to enjoy, not just one special interest group. Permanent blinds will only cause chaos, crowding, and other problems entitlement issues. WMA's already have rules established for blinds and the Willard Spur WMA should be no different. I know I may be one voice but I promise that I speak with the common voice on this issue. When Casey Snider proposed this area to become a WMA this was discussed as UWA mentions and was not to be. Commercializing this unique wetland will lead to its destruction. We already have enough attacks on our wetlands from numerous businesses, industries, and special interests. As the DNR, please continue be good stewards of our resources and keep the Willard Spur WMA natural and free of permanent blinds.

Thanks
Rich Beus

Permanent blinds should not be allowed on the spur. I don't believe it's right to allow personal property to be built in public land. This will cause confusion and confrontation as well as start setting up the possibility of limiting access similar to the way things are done in Nevada

With the number of hunters already in the field the experience will not be benefitted by making the number of permits unlimited for open bull. It is already difficult finding animals to observe and hunt, the possibility of further reducing elk numbers again will hurt the species and hunters

Something needs done in the BoxElder Region. This year in the Park Valley area opening morning from my location I saw 14 hunters and very few deer. The pressure in this area is far above what it should be for the herd in the area. I believe the region needs broken up more and/or reduced due to the amount of private land. It seems that the private land owners in this area hunt the public with family on the opener then switch to their private after pushing the animals out of public. The safety to the public hunting is at risk as well. My son and i has an opportunity to fill a tag but choose not to due to the number of hunters in the area and feeling that out back Stott was not safe. Not everyone would do the same and the risk is unacceptable.

I am absolutely against the unlimited any bull tags. The general any bull hunt is already very difficult with the amount of people and the lack of public lands that we are able to hunt, in my experience if we do unlimited tags there will be an [REDACTED] amount of people and nobody will enjoy it. If this happens I know for a fact that myself and lots of others will no longer hunt general season elk in the state of Utah. If anything we need to lower the number of tags given out.

The unlimited any weapon elk tag is a terrible management plan. This is counterintuitive to the last management plan. And counterintuitive to the ideas of having wilderness areas for the elk to hide. Keep the numbers of tags capped to reduce the amount of people in the wilderness areas. Please consider limiting the amount of any weapon bull elk tags. There needs to be a cap on out of state sales on any weapon bull elk tags also. Provide the opportunity to in state local residents only.

Allowing an unlimited number of any-bull elk permits is not sound management, nor will it increase opportunity in the long run. Hunting in Utah every year is frustrating at best for someone who loves hunting. For those youth or new comers to hunting it essentially ruins any interest in hunting after no success and limited animal sightings. My daughter shot a really nice bull on the Youth Any Bull hunt this year. I saw her desire to hunt reinforced during and after the hunt. Fast forward to the general deer hunt and I saw the desire decrease rapidly. Didn't see a buck on the opening day, only saw little bucks the rest the hunt. There was no excitement in the hunt, no hope of even seeing a decent buck. By the end of the hunt she didn't even care if we continued hunting because she had not hope that she would see a decent buck to shoot. Making general bull tags unlimited will do the same thing to the Youth Any Bull tag. More bulls will be shot each year lowering the opportunity for all hunters to harvest a bull in the future. Saying the harvest numbers won't change is illogical. If you have one hunter hunting an area that has three bulls in the area, only one bull can be shot. If there are ten hunters hunting the area, the chances are all three bulls are going to be shot. It's statistics, pretty simple to figure out. I would rather hunter every three years, pay three times more for my tag and have a good hunting experience and higher chance at harvesting a decent bull or buck. I waited 20 years to hunt the San Juan unit and now have an trophy bull on my way. Do you know what hunt I talk about? The San Juan hunt. I don't talk about the 25 plus years of unsuccessful spike and any bull hunts (Unless I am telling someone how bad Utah hunting is). You need to give people an opportunity to actually have some success, instead of increasing tags, so that hunters can compete with more hunters for a lower amount of bulls, a lower quality hunting experience, and lower success, with smaller sized animals. Manage Utah for success, not the opportunity to wear orange and carry a gun with 100 other hunters in the same canyon, looking for elk/deer that have been critically reduced because too many tags were sold.

Lowering the deer number objective in a state that already doesn't have enough deer makes no sense. Unless, you are going to claim you hit your goal and are doing a good job based on the lower number, hoping that people forget you lowered the objective number. This kind of like saying I want to do 100 pushups, but it's too hard because I don't want to put the work into getting the 100 pushups, so I will just lower my goal to 80 so that I can tell everyone I reached my goal.

Why lower the Elk Ridge deer objective if the herd is already considerably lower? Leave the objective in place and work harder to get the deer herd back up. The objective was put in place at some point and was obtainable at some point. Reducing the objective by 4/5 seems like a copout. I apply for this limited entry deer tag and hope the deer numbers and buck size warrant waiting 15-20 years to draw a tag.

Having unlimited amount of Bull Elk tags is ridiculous. There are already too many hunters in any area you hunt, especially North Slope. Do not go through with this, if anything drop the amount of tags to 25,000. I strongly oppose this decision.

Your objective to "Provide hunting opportunities that will encourage youth participation and maintain family hunting traditions," is unobtainable. Nothing will deter youth participation more than too many people on the mountain. I already risk losing the ability to hunt with my son, daughter and now my nephews due to the fact that getting up at 0400 to hike 5-7 miles, only to pass 30+ hunters and have people already in your spot. It is very discouraging when you try to encourage youth to hunt and the fear of being shot outweighs the SLIM chance of shooting an elk. This was not the case when DWR had three separate hunts instead of the current hunt every season option. I think this will only get worse if unlimited tags are sold. If money is what you are ultimately after, raise the price of the tag.

Current regulations have the 3 season Elk hunt option. Elk are very elusive animals that are hard to view, let alone harvest an animal. During the previous regulation of 3 separate hunts, hunters were spread apart amongst the 3 seasons and success rates for most hunting parties was greater. Under current regulations, you now have archery, rifle and muzzle loader season hunters, hunting the same areas at the same time. Not only has success rates for the area we hunt gone from mediocre to nothing, the safety of hunters is in jeopardy. There are far too many hunters on the mountain after allowing people to hunt all 3 seasons. I think this will only get worse if unlimited tags are sold. If money is what you are ultimately after, raise the price of the tag.

We already have to wait 20+ years to get the opportunity to hunt a limited entry hunt for one species, even though non-residents can apply for every species. For Utah residents, Elk will become once in a lifetime and getting the chance at hunting limited entry deer and elk in the same lifetime will be nearly impossible.

I notice that he cites one of the reasons for reviewing the elk plan was to try and fit in more 'primitive' weapon hunts. I feel that is disingenuous.

Modern muzzleloaders and archery equipment are anything but primitive! The HAMS hunts are NOT primitive! A primitive muzzleloader would be a patched round ball, open sights, and external ignition system (such as a percussion lock, flint lock or match lock) with loose powder. An inline muzzleloader with a scope and pre measured powder pellets is not a primitive weapon! In a similar vein of thought, modern archery equipment, made of the most modern materials, using the most modern materials is not a primitive weapon. Primitive archery tackle would be stick bows (no pulley systems) shooting wood arrows.

I wish the division would use the state statute of 'antique firearm' for a primitive firearm for hunting.

Utah does need a primitive weapon hunt.

Utah State Statute defines antique firearms as:

76-10-501

(a) "Antique firearm" means:

(i) any firearm, including any firearm with a matchlock, flintlock, percussion cap, or similar type of ignition system, manufactured in or before 1898; or

(ii) a firearm that is a replica of any firearm described in this Subsection

(1)(a), if the replica:

(A) is not designed or redesigned for using rimfire or conventional centerfire fixed ammunition; or

(B) uses rimfire or centerfire fixed ammunition which is:

(I) no longer manufactured in the United States; and

(II) is not readily available in ordinary channels of commercial trade; or

(iii)

(A) that is a muzzle loading rifle, shotgun, or pistol; and

(B) is designed to use black powder, or a black powder substitute, and cannot use fixed ammunition.

(b) "Antique firearm" does not include:

(i) a weapon that incorporates a firearm frame or receiver;

(ii) a firearm that is converted into a muzzle loading weapon; or

(iii) a muzzle loading weapon that can be readily converted to fire fixed ammunition by replacing the:

(A) barrel;

(B) bolt;

(C) breechblock; or

(D) any combination of Subsection (1)(b)(iii)(A), (B), or (C).

I agree with everything except the unlimited elk tags. I appreciate the reasoning behind this as it acknowledges the issue here in Utah of limited opportunities to get out and hunt but don't see it as the correct solution to that issue. We already have an unlimited tag option with the archery hunt, unfortunately dates for archery in Utah are not favorable for the archer, why not make a change there? Thank you for the change on the North Cache and others! If you open it up to unlimited tags, the hunt needs to be shortened or we will make a hard tag even harder to fill. I also feel the management plan for elk here is based on size not opportunity, why is that? Is the objective to have the biggest bulls available so we can feed pocketbooks of guides and private landowners or provide an opportunity for normal people to get out and have a good hunt on a regular basis even though they don't shoot the biggest bull on Instagram. The focus seems out of line with Sportsmanship in my opinion. Can we not go to a broader view quota system on units and manage areas and habitat capacities with the goal that most people can hunt and when they do, have a good opportunity on a good but not great bull? It seems like now, unless you have private land access, public land hunters either get lucky and draw a good tag, wait years to do so, or try to hunt bulls on any bull units with low public land success rates. I would love Utah to have more updated harvest data available as well as the distinction between public and private land harvest to have a true sense of public land opportunity. If this is available somewhere please let me know.

I'm opposed to allowing an unlimited number of any bull elk tags. I think that you are opening the door to over crowding, conflict, and trouble for the limited areas where public hunters will have reasonable access to elk. Why not test the waters by substantially increasing permit numbers to 20k or something like that rather than opening the floodgate and blowing things up?

Horrible idea. We already draw far too many out of state hunters with our over the counter unlimited archery tags. Three season tags are turing archery season into scouting season for rifle hunters and now you want to make unlimited permits available. All in the name of the all mighty dollars. You should be ashamed of yourselves.

Elk Management Plan: The idea of unlimited permits is irresponsible and all about revenue or getting people out of the DWR's ear about the tags being sold out so quickly. There is hardly any elk on the open bull units and putting even more hunters up there will only push the few that are left on to private land. Consider keeping it at 15K and making it part of the draw so there is an equal opportunity for everybody to get a tag. More hunters and more $$ does not equal success it only makes the hunt worse and gives people less opportunities at being successful.

Unlimited elk tags is ludicrous. It is already hard enough to be successful and now you want to ruin the hunt by Unlimited tags. Maybe we should work at closing all these mountain side roads that ruin the hunts by 4 wheelers and side by sides.

Unlimited tags only serve as a money grab, you would be better off increasing limited entry bull tags throughout the state.

All hunts including the general session deer hunt is becoming a once in a lifetime hunt. You are forcing us to hunt out of state.

I am wondering about a couple things, I support this proposal/amendment, but I have a few questions I am hoping can be addressed.

1. How long is this plan/study to be in effect before we look at the data to determine reevaluation?
2. Is there any talk for Utah to open the ability for residents to put in for more than one species of either limited entry or once in a lifetime hunts? As it is available for Non-Residents?
3. Any data to suggest managing the number of Any Bull Tags based on regions of the state, rather than going to "unlimited"?
4. Has there been any talk to open up multiple general any bull hunts, like we have seen with the early deer any weapon hunt?
5. What are we doing about our landlocked public lands such as the Round Valley WMA, and other areas such as this?

Questions 3-6 are for the concern of over crowding of hunters on the mountain during our any bull general season. And I am aware of the high private property in the Northern Region, what is being done to help work with land owners and ethical hunters gain more access with our private landowners?

I do not support the rule change to increase general elk tags to be unlimited. I believe this will greatly degrade the quality of the hunt and will make an already difficult hunt even more so. If additional funding is required I support fee increases for general elk tags, but I think we need help our elk herds in general areas and this proposal will greatly harm them. We already have unlimited archery tags so anyone can pick up a bow and hunt if they miss out on a rifle tag.

There are already too many hunters in the general season. It is getting unsafe having people shooting in your direction. With regards to the unlimited elk tags. This makes no sense, the reason "this is not an easy hunt" is because our bull elk numbers are not very high in the general any bull elk areas. I am an avid elk hunter and typically hunt hard to fill my tag in places that most people would never think of venturing in to. It's the only way to harvest a bull elk consistently in this state. I have 2 young boys just old enough to hunt big game and it's very tough to go find opportunities to not only see elk but have a chance at harvesting one. And let's take this a step further, and say have a chance to harvest a mature bull. We always have a great time in the mountains whether we take an animal or not, but your losing the interest to HUNT from bad experience with your younger hunters. If your main goal is "Strengthening family ties to Utah's hunting heritage" at the cost of decreasing an already poor number of bull elk with unlimited hunters, that's a devastating blow to our elk herds. These elk are what the management should be about, if they go away it doesn't matter how many hunters and family traditions are saved there will be nothing in the end. Managing by numbers is a much better option than an unlimited free for all. I do love the archery hunts in September, it makes sense to let archers hunt elk in the rut. HAMS hunts are a lesser weapon hunt? right? I would say UT muzzloader hunts are a single shot rifle hunt, with the equipment not being restricted much, the muzzloader in my opinion is missing the whole point of a muzzloader hunt. Guys are building long range muzzloaders that shoot accurately further than the average rifle hunters abilities. I would like to see the muzzloader hunt brought back to what a true muzzloader should be, and was, not very long ago in UT.

This is typical of the DWR. Just when things are going well with the elk herd, you want to screw it all up. The DWR manages for money, not for wildlife. The more money you can squeeze out of hunters, the more you want to change the rules. Leave the elk alone! We have more elk than deer now and are producing good numbers in most areas. Better than it has ever been. Selling unlimited elk tags will wipe out the elk in a few years. If you want to make a positive change, make the general deer hunt 4 point or better. Worry about the deer herds and leave the elk alone!!

Making the General Bull Hunt unlimited is a terrible idea. There is already enough hunters afield on these units. It would be better to make it a draw like the general deer and divide the units up in my opinion. Or at least increase the tags by 3000 or less. There are better ways to increase opportunity without making the general elk hunt a complete disaster.

There is absolutely no reason to decrease population objectives in any unit. There are no units that have such great populations that the division should be decreasing objectives. It makes no sense. There should be more of a push to improve the habitat to keep objectives where they are across the state.

The first rule change for permanent blinds on Willard Spur should not be allowed. Allowing permanent blinds on one WMA opens a can of worms to allowing them on other WMA.

The second rule should be approved as I don't understand why lead shot was even allowed on the unit.

The third rule needs clarification. Doesn't a retrieval zone already exist to the east of the rest pond? Is the zone to be extended further? Just don't fully understand where the intended retrieval zone is supposed to be when one exists already.

I strongly oppose the recommendation for unlimited any-bull elk permits. As stated by Covy, it is becoming increasingly more difficult to draw a limited entry elk permit so we need other options and for people to have opportunities to hunt elk in the state however I do not believe that offering unlimited general any-bull permits is the answer. It will only further devastate our herds on the any-bull units and make those hunting opportunities worse for those of us who might not draw a limited entry permit. I would add that this 2020 elk hunting season has been one of the most frustrating seasons I have ever experienced. Typically, I will hunt a section of public land behind causey reservoir that sits in-between the Deseret and Skull Crack CWMUs. Every year I have no problem glassing and locating dozens of bull elk. This year however, I did not see a single elk in my 5 days hunting on the muzzleloader elk hunt, Nov. 1-5th. Whatever the cause, whether it be an increase in predators or warm weather, more permits seems like an absolutely horrible idea. I agree that last year was unfortunate for some that weren't able to buy a permit but we have to consider that circumstances surrounding the increase in demand such as Covid-19. Outdoor activities were one of the few activities most people could participate in with the pandemic. Sportsmen like me who prioritize hunting, made sure they logged in early on the day they went on sale. By making unlimited permits available it will punish us faithful sportsmen who regularly buy permits just so that the state can try to appease those that complained about not getting permits, who might not typically buy tags on a yearly basis anyways. Please, do not offer unlimited tags. 15,000 is more than enough and arguably too many as is.

Other recommendations were great such as the HAMS proposals, adding new any-bull hunts, eliminating some hunts such as the Henry Mtn. management hunt etc.

Permanent blinds make it easier for the airboat clubs to imply ownership and rights on public lands. It also makes it easier for the airboat clubs to haul more people at once, since they don't have to reserve space and weight for their blind.

Permanent blinds could also become Boating hazards, trash and liabilities as water depths and vegetation growth changes year to year. Massive storms and wind could cause them to lose debris and pollute the pristine views of an otherwise wild and natural feeling wetland. Private land owners should be able to build what ever they want. Public land needs to stay public.

We should focus more on expanding the habitat for the elk instead of trying to down size the elk herds. We should also focus on what the animal(s) needs are and how to use the money allotted to the DWR more wisely on the animal(s) and not on frivolous DWR spending. In addition for better genetics we need to have regulations that let younger bulls grow to maturity and spread their genes.

-Unlimited general season bull elk tags is madness. The hunt is already challenging enough.

-Instead of trying to just give out unlimited tags with extremely low success. Focus on the number of elk not the quality or the age of the bulls.

We need to have a longer archery elk season allowing the sportsmen using archery equipment a chance to harvest during the rut. All of our surrounding states archery hunt from Sept 1 - Sept 30 and have healthy and thriving herds. We also do not need more limited entry hunts that generate revenue for the DWR and take away from the general public. THE WORST IDEA EVER IS TO ALLOW THE SELL OF UNLIMITED TAGS IN OPEN BULL UNITS. 2020 WAS THE WORST YEAR I HAVE SEEN FOR ELK HARVEST IN THE NORTH SLOPE DAGGET AREA IN 30 YEARS OF HUNTING THERE. PEOPLE WERE CRAWLING ON TOP OF EACH OTHER TRYING TO FIND A PLACE TO HUNT. NOW THE DWR WANTS TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF HUNTERS TO UNLIMITED STATUS, PEOPLE WILL BE HUNTING STANDING SHOULDER TO SHOULDER. THE DWR NEEDS TO LOOK AT MANAGING TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF BIG GAME ANIMALS IN PUBLIC HUNTING AREAS TO INCREASE THE HARVEST OPPORTUNITY FOR THE GENERAL HUNTER. CWMU AND PRIVATE LANDS NEED TO UNDERSTAND THAT THE WILDLIFE IS OWNED BY THE PUBLIC AND NOT THEM. CWMU AND PRIVATE LANDS HAVE CREATED THE RICH MANS HUNTING SPORT IN UTAH AND NEEDS TO BE CHANGED.

Not sure I 100% oppose the unlimited GS elk tags. I am concerned about the true motivation behind it. If we're concerned with our hunting heritage, should we be looking at more quality opportunities? If an unspoken reason for this change is to increase revenue, I'm fine with that. I just hope the DWR would be upfront about it.

I'd also like to see biological information that would support the claim that unlimited tags would have little impact on the elk herds.

What about adding a few tags to some LE hunts?

I am in full support of the Sept. 1-30 LE archery hunts and the hams hunts on these 4 units. This should be a great primer to get all of Utah's LE units to this model. Why we kill elk at their most vulnerable time with our most effective weapons is far beyond me.

I DO NOT support the unlimited any bull tags. These units struggle with elk populations to begin with and this will just be one more thing to put more and more pressure on them. I am all for increasing opportunity but do not think this is the way. I would support unlimited tags for these units if the hunter is under 18. This would allow those that are new to hunting the opportunity to hunt early but would limit the number of tags for those over 18.

I thank you for looking for ways to increase opportunity in the state of Utah. It is needed but this is not the solution. Stop killing elk at their most vulnerable times with our most effective weapons and stop turning every LE unit into a premium unit that takes 25 years to draw. Doing this would increase opportunity without the need to kill every elk on general units.

we live in vernal and hunt north and south slope areas for elk and deer. From our experience I think the unlimited general any bull tags change is a huge mistake! The hunting pressure in this unit is already so high and the numbers of elk just aren't there (i know you guys have your studies and animal surveys but in the real world it doesn't add up) if anything the number of tags needs to be decreased. decrease antlerless tags and any bull tags for a few years and see what happens. I know everybody wants an elk tag but we just don't live in a world where that is doable. we decimate the population of bulls every year and wonder why hunting gets worse every year. something needs to change but more tags, especially unlimited tags is not the answer.

We had a northslope general deer tag this year, what a terrible unit that has become. we hunted hard for 4 days, we saw 3 does in that time. I've never seen so few deer during a hunt, I saw plenty of people and sidexsides even when we hiked as far away from the roads as we could. there is a road and sidexside trail on every ridge and draw in this area. It goes back to what I said about the elk, there are way too many hunters and too few deer to keep this up. something has to change! cut the number of tags in half and increase the prices, I would happily take a couple of years off of hunting if it meant that the deer population had a chance to rebuild and it wouldn't hurt my feelings to pay the extra 50-100 dollars if every 3 or 4 years we got a quality deer hunt. Please! more tags is not the answer

I support the plans as long as they actually are MANAGED FOR THE DEER! why do we keep adding more tags, more seasons! the hunting pressure is just too high. I keep hearing about predators and how we have to get rid of coyotes and mountain lions. I am confident that we hunt and kill more deer with our cars each year than the predators. we are the biggest predators of deer and we have to change the way we are doing things, if not there will be no deer for our grandkids. less hunters, more highway deer crossings, less ohv trails they are everywhere! (i'm not against ohv's but its getting ridiculous, at least close off some of the major areas to ohv's during hunting seasons)

i support these plans but we have to lower the hunting pressure, less tags please. I realize that isn't the cure all for the deer situation in utah but when we hunt hard for 4 days in the north slope area and see 3 does total and hunters and sidexsides everywhere, how do we ever expect there to be any sort of a deer population. I dont know what the approach is to fixing all the issues with the deer and urban sprawl but currently it is not going in the right direction. less permits each year and more highway projects for animal crossings would be a great place to start in my opinion

I support any plan that increases buck to doe ratio and decreases the amount of hunters. there are simply too many hunters and ohv activity in our mountains. this is especially true in the central mtns unit. there are ohv trails/roads on every ridge and draw in this unit. i grew up in this unit and have searched and searched for areas that are free of ohv access, there are some remote areas but for the most part you can access most of this unit from the seat of a sidexside or at least you are never more than a couple hundred yards from a road or trail. close off these trails during hunting season and decrease the amount of hunters.

Hi, I have been hunting elk in the north slope unit for over 25 years with my family and friends. We use to go out hunting and come back telling each other how many elk we seen at night around the fire everyone always seen elk. We usually got a few bulls with the group. Now with over 15 hunters at camp we are lucky if someone even sees an elk. Our camp in the last 4 years hasn't harvested an elk we are 0 for 60 as I look at it. Talking to the fish and game officer he said he seen one elk killed in 2 days of checking camps and hunters afield. The land is over grazed by cattle & sheep. The herds are not managed for hunters but more for cattle. I feel like all the numbers and stories you post are false, misleading, untrustworthy. My feeling is you guys dont care about elk and deer populations but more about the money. Opening up unlimited tags would give the small population of public land elk no chance. The elk population you say you want it 79k but I think 70k of that is for cwmu hunters and increasing their numbers while decreasing public land elk. I am 43 years old and all my kids hear is how good it use to be. I dont see the enthusiasm in them I had as a kid for hunting. Because as a kid I could see deer and elk on hikes or driving making it exciting. I deer hunted for 2 days hiking with 3 boys 8,10 12yrs old seeing one or two doe a day. Day 3 decided to road hunt all day driving we seen 6 does 0 bucks 0 elk. I couldn't believe it. Our elk hunt was even worse we seen 1 elk in 5 days very little sign on hikes we moved from high to low, pretty much covered from Gilbert meadows to hoop lake. Talked to the rancher in lonetree wyoming and he said that his neighbor had 43 elk in his field 2 winters ago and he called it in and the wyoming fish and game called for depredation tags. He stated that 2 made it out of the field the rest were killed. He said he didn't even see an elk all winter last year 2019-2020.

I am all for everyone hunting but my advice first would be increase public land elk herds, and extremely reducing the cow elk tags. I really feel like the last 5 years the north slope area has gone way, way, way down hill. I use to hear shooting all morning long now it is silent. I hope for the next generations to come that you listen to hunters and what I'm telling you.

Thanks for your time.

Scott Frandsen

Deer winter kill was horrible young deer are none existing. Larger deer herds would increase deer survival and make it easier to rebound from harsh winters.

Keep the limit on the elk the same, we are not Colorado our elk herd are not as large as there's. If someone doesn't get one before they run out, then they are out of luck. Don't change the deer dates, every year I get a tag I try to take a mature buck. I will not take a spike or 2 point, let them grow up. You will hit the rut and it will destroy the mature buck.

Providing an unlimited number of any bull tags will continue to stress the existing population of elk & create an even more disappointing hunting experience. This hunt is already challenging because of the number of hunters on the public lands, adding more will only make it worse.

In 2015 there was about 700 wintering elk in Middle Fork. Last year there was 60. Why is our elk plan seem to be at 0 elk instead of a healthy WELL MANAGED herd? Not only that but over half of where the over counter any bull tags, are mostly private (except the uintas) or they don't live there. example like west of trappers loop (ogden utah). Elk are No longer around the ogden valley and with public elk being only in a few small areas across utah. It makes other hunters always running into each other. Also please bring back the middle fork herd. Even if you have to fence them into middle fork. That's why we pay for tags so you guys can manage our animals better! Even my guiding buddies quit guiding elk because its getting worse and worse.

Giving away unlimited any legal weapon elk tags is too far. Our elk herds are already not good due to yall giving too many cow tags along with the bulls, wildfires everywhere, and wolves. I like the adding a couple new LE units tho.

Adding unlimited amount of any bull tags is absolutely ridiculous. The elk are struggling so much already from over selling spike, any bull, and cow tags. It's pathetic that the state calls in management when an avid hunter can spend the entire day on the mountain hiking and glassing and barely see any elk compared to years in the past. If anything you need to cut the tags and stop letting hunters hunt cows, whom are pregnant, in November, December and January.

However, I believe the wasatch west and lamas also needs to be cut down. I spent several days hunting this unit with family, hiking in the back country, and didn't see any deer with antlers. Except for a few on private. The whole state should reduce the numbers and let the deer population come back up.

I support all but the unlimited general any bull elk tags. This is absurd, Utah is growing like crazy and we already have crowded hunts with low elk numbers on the general season areas. I would support a small increase in tags(as long as the new any bull units are also approved) but unlimited is going too far in my opinion. Thank you

I oppose you moving the nine mile, Anthro to an open bull area. first off the landscape is beautiful and the public will destroy that area. We have been out there with Eagle scout projects fixing guzzlers to keep this area maintained so the animals would continue to thrive. This change to make the Anthro an open bull area will wipe out the elk population in these areas. If anything why not offer more limited entry tags available this way you will still have control of how many hunters are allowed in the area. This area has more prime hunting than you know. I feel opening this up would be a huge mistake. Taking the cap off the open bull area is crazy because they are so over populated as it is and this will just make it 20 worse than it is now. I feel the fish and game just want to wipe out all the elk for what ever reason. One year the fish and game opened the Anthro to Cow elk hunting and sold 500 permits and the area has never recovered. How is changing to open bull going to help? its not. There is going to be so much pressure and so many people its going to push all the ELK onto tribal ground and then they will kill them all off. it makes no sense.

I oppose you moving the nine mile, Anthro to an open bull area. This would devastate this beautiful landscape. Its bad enough that all of the oil rigs are doing that now. This change to make the Anthro an open bull area will wipe out the elk population in these areas. You should offer a few more limited entry tags instead of having this unlimited.

I am only against one proposal.
Please do not allocate an unlimited number of any bull elk tags. You state that this is already a challenging hunt.... you wanna make it even more challenging? I am not opposed to increasing the number of tags.
Also, can we please eliminate scopes, other than the 1 power, on muzzleloaders?
Most hunters now have the long-range muzzleloaders that have greater capabilities than the majority of rifle hunters. I feel like we are wiping out our trophy deer and elk populations with these muzzloaders. So much for a traditional weapon...

I support the changes made to the population objectives. Realistic population objectives create better expectations for sportsmen and sportswomen as well as make management more realistic for the DWR.

I am concerned about the disparity in landownership within the 4-5-6 unit. Because most of the unit is private property, it is creating a difficult management situation. The private property serves as refuge for bucks and when annual deer classification occurs, the buck:doe ratio on private property is likely much higher than on the public property. I worry that the private property inflates the buck:doe ratio and requires increased permit recommendations on the unit. However, those same bucks that drive the permits are not available to the majority of the hunters because they are on private property. As a result, a disproportionate amount of the hunters go to the public land and causing potential crowding and driving buck:doe ratio even lower in those areas. I imagine this happens in other units too that I don't hunt. If possible, I would love to see the 4-5-6 unit managed in separate sections so that the buck:doe ratios on the private do not negatively impact the public land. Or I would love to see the classification data weighted according to the percentage of permit holders that hunt public land. For example, if surveys showed that 15% of the permit holders hunted private property, then classification data from private property should only carry 15% of the weight in determining permit recommendations.

Finally, I would like to see more public land outside of the Southern Region managed for 18-20 bucks per 100 does. The Southern Region ransacked the rest of the state when they made all their units 18-20 B:D ratios in 2015 without receiving input from the rest of the state. Because deer are a statewide resource, people from all parts of the state hunt all units, and because all general deer units accumulate preference points into the same pool...it has forced all the other units to make up the slack and provide hunting opportunity to Utahns. I think that some units in the Southern Region should be changed to 15-17 B:D and more 18-20 B:D units should exist in other parts of the state.

I hunt the Willard Spur area in my airboat. There are currently permanent blinds that have been installed in the past. I understand they have been "grandfathered" in and they still exist. However, they pose hazards for boaters as they sit at water level. It was agreed when the Spur was set up as a waterfowl management area that no more permanent blinds would be built. I reject this portion of the proposed changes to allow more permanent blinds to be built.

I strongly oppose unlimited elk tags. I appreciate the desire to market to opportunity, but I would gladly pay a little more for successful opportunities. Unlimited tags will only wipe out the herds and limit opportunity for harvest. I can go hike in the mountains any time, but when I'm hunting I would like a reasonable opportunity for harvest.

I appreciate the various ways that the division recommends increasing fees and opportunities but I think this would create more problems that it would help. I understand that California and other states have this practice but were definitely not California. We still have many more opportunities and areas that we can use. If we were crowded to the point where this was needed I could support this recommendation. As far as using steel shot on the WMA as a whole

I feel would be a great idea due to the fact that a lot of waterfowl frequent the same areas that support upland birds that could digest the pellets. Thank you for the opportunity to comment on these amendments.

There may be no biological impact on the elk; because let's face it. People don't know how to find or kill them. HOWEVER, putting more hunters in the field DECREASES HUNTING QUALITY.

The quality of the hunts currently is terrible. People everywhere. I will personally boycott hunting Utah if it comes to this. These hunts are miserable because of POOR HUNTING PRACTICES. Any bull units in Utah are so terrible because they all border private land, or CWMU management Units. The any bull hunts are held during times when no elk are on the public lands. So stop filling these areas with more hunters.

After watching Covy Jones' presentation about the mule deer unit plans:

Do you have any additional comments about the mule deer unit plans?

Later seasons are fine. Let's move closer to their naturals Rut. Statistically bigger deer are killed later towards November!

HOWEVER, An antler point restriction needs to be put in place. So many young deer get killed every year. They never have a chance to become old because the average deer in Utah is 1-2 years old. Stop letting everyone kill 2 points. That is not what deer hunting and conservation is about.

We need seasonal road closures, too many people can drive everywhere and there are no regulations on roads. This creates a poor quality of hunt. Make people hike and go get these critters.

Stop managing this state for opportunity and start managing for QUALITY.

DO NOT GET RID OF THE HENRY MOUNTAIN MANAGEMENT HUNT. The max point draw for the other seasons is already 25. It is not a limited entry deer hunt, but a once in a lifetime mule deer hunt. You will destroy anyone's odds to ever draw this tag.

Permanent blinds on the spur is absurd.
It violates the WMA agreement. Anyone in favor of this should join a duck club.
This will result in way too much fallout and issues on the marsh.
If this is for the benefit of public hunting, let's keep it how it is. Temporary blinds are great. If this is a request submitted by the Pintail DC, they should buy private land, not profit further off of public lands.

Utah is great. The DWR has always had good policies, specifically compared to other states I've visited and hunted. Let's keep it that way, please.

I don't understand why
The DWR would recommend permanent blinds on the Willard spur. It is my belief permanent blinds would create unnecessary clutter that could become hazardous, also not preserving the natural habitat. I am curious how legal and illegal blinds will be monitored. I just think a lot more thought and explaining needs to happen before any decisions are made. I have an uneasy feeling about permanent blinds that may cause a huge expense on the conservation dollar.

Pleas do not add more deer or elk tags!!! I know the far majority of sportsman would tether pay higher tag fees if it is a matter of having more quality deer and elk around!! I am one that spends 60 days year in the mountains and our state -especially north has become very scary with the quality and quantity of animals. It is also already plenty crowded when you are in the mountains. Increasing the number of permits just adds to the problem. Let's manage our deer and elk herds to get more quality and quantity while at same time acres sing our already over crowded hunting seasons! No reason why utah sportsman should have to go to different states to get good quality hunting when we could be managing our hints better in utah. Thanks. D 435 757 5746

The #1 challenge to getting more hunters into the sport is land access. I think we need to change the deer and elk permit percentages from 90:10 to 80:20 or ideally 75:25. I realize that we might lose some of the CWMU's, but overall I think this would increase the general public's opportunities. I also don't believe that those in the program would suffer as they would just increase the price they sell the permits and still maintain the same revenue.

I am the social media coordinator with the Utah Waterfowl Association. We have a Facebook group that is over 9,000 members. We polled our group in regards to the permit to build permanent blinds on the Willard Spur. Here are the results.
Are you in favor, Oppose or indifferent on the permits to be obtained to build a permanent blind on the Willard Spur
In Favor: 24 votes
In Different: 57 votes
Oppose: 483 votes

Our online Facebook poll shows how unpopular this motion is. I voice my concern with the 483 other members that voted in our poll to NOT allow the construction of permanent blinds on the Willard Spur.

I do not support the proposal for the general elk hunt. The elk and the hunter need a limited amount of tags given. I would rather hunt every few years and see more elk and less hunters. I feel the number of elk on public land for the general hunt is already low. We need to do our part as sportsman to not kill everything that walks. This proposal seems like a money maker to me.

Please do not allow permits for permanent blinds on WMA's. Keep the public WMA's public. If you issue permits for permanent blinds people who have the blinds will believe they have ownership of that portion of the WMA. We already have issues with this when people think they can claim 'Their Spot'. The permanent blinds will add to this problem and multiply the problems. Please, do not allow this change to be approved and keep the public WMA's public.

-Completely against unlimited general season elk tags! Horrible idea. There is already an unlimited number of archery tags. Archery is growing very rapidly. More pressure pushes the elk to private land that people do not have access to, and with that being said, when does allowing and unlimited number of people in the field become a safety concern?
-Completely against the multi season elk tag, however I would be for changing it to and LE hunt. Doing away with the general 3 season elk tag will help with the excessive people trying to buy the tags. (There was no issue buying tags until the 3 season was introduced) There is enough opportunity for people to participate in elk hunting.

As a long time, dedicated public waterfowler, I wanted to communicate my opposition to proposed permitted construction of permanent blinds on the Willard Spur WMA. The "Spur" as it is commonly referred to, is a special place due to the amount of habitat, it's physical size and accessibility. The freedom of choice the Spur offers is what makes it so popular. The addition of permanent blinds is fraught with hazards and represents a slippery slope in Utah waterfowling we do not want to entertain. Navigational hazards, hunter interpersonal conflicts and aesthetic impacts are just a few of the issues allowing permanent blinds would introduce. And these blinds are not necessary for public enjoyment or success. The Spur currently provides everyone the same opportunity for location and concealment. Your hunting success and enjoyment is entirely within your control.

Again, I am fundamentally opposed to this proposal on the grounds it is unnecessary for hunter success and enjoyment, it creates genuine navigational safety issues and it will inevitably result in personal altercations between hunters over access to the permanent blinds. In addition, this proposal represents a very slippery slope leading to a stake/lottery system which is completely unacceptable to the Utah waterfowling community.

Hello RAC members and chairs. Thank you for your service. I am writing on the behalf of the Utah Airboat Association to strongly oppose the DRW proposal to allow permanent blinds to be built on the new Willard Spur WMA. When the original WMA legislation was proposed, many groups got together to hammer out an agreement that all could support. One of these agreements, and the most important to all concerned, was that the two duck clubs that operate in the WMA could keep their existing permanent blinds but no new blinds would be built. This was an important part of gathering support for the creation of the WMA. Most waterfowlers are opposed to building permanent blinds on ANY WMA because they are unsightly, they create anger and controversy when multiple hunters want to use the same blind, and they create navigational hazards to boaters in the dark. Permanent blinds also raise the possibility of creating a California-stlye blind draw system that creates long lines waiting to draw access to our public marshes. I know of no hunter that wants our public marshes to end up with that kind of system. Permanent blinds create many problems including a sense of entitlement to the blind and that creates confrontations in the marsh between armed individuals (never a good thing). Other questions include the upkeep and maintenance of the blinds, liability issues, navigational hazards, removal if necessary, and overall unsightly appearance in our marshes. Please oppose this proposal as it goes against our Utah waterfowling tradition of open hunting and free access to our public marshes.

Thank you for your consideration.

I oppose unlimited general season elk tags without a cap on nonresident tags. I understand the desire to make this hunt available to Utah families, so to make this hunt reasonable for that purpose, non-resident tags should be capped or discontinued. This proposed strategy too heavily favors private land access, which takes away from the public land hunting experience that I value deeply.

I am neutral or support all other proposals.

CWMU properties up for renewal and new applicants that contain public land should be revised to exclude public land from CWMU area. I am in opposition to 6a, adding the 3 season any bull tags and then making them unlimited quota will put an extreme amount of pressure on the elk herds on these units from mid August until mid November, the stress alone will diminish the herd as well as add more pressure on spike only archery hunts.

Many of the recommendations make sense. I have a Master of Natural Resources degree and do understand the biology and socioeconomic factors behind the proposed decision. I do not, and will not, support unlimited any bull elk permits for any weapon or muzzleloader hunts. I would support them for archery. I would also like to see the archery season be placed in September rather than the rifle hunts. If you want to give more people more opportunity then you should split the hunts up into multiple short (5 days) seasons. It is already hard enough to find a camping spot on the mountain during the elk hunts with 15,000 any bull permits. I would also support doing away with the multi-season any bull permits.

This summer I got online first thing in the morning to get an any bull permit and was unsuccessful in getting one because the UDWR computer system kept crashing and kicking me out. I would rather see the any bull permits as a draw permit than as a free-for-all nightmare that makes the state look inept.

Adjusting target population goals will not create more deer or more deer hunting opportunities. The chalk creek has the best chance of any unit in northern Utah of turning out great deer herds because it is all private. But predation and winter kill is rough on that herd. I don't know anything about the morgan-south rich unit.

I do think the division needs to zone in on realistic management goals. I am familiar with all of these units and would love to see more habitat projects and hunter access. The Book Cliffs are in really rough shape and tag numbers need to be cut for the next several years. If your biologist tells you that the deer herd is in good shape, fire them.

I have been asking for some archery elk hunting opportunity during the elk rut. This provides me 4 options to choose from. It also provides me an any bull unit closer to home. I am very happy with these proposed changes. I am one that would like to see a small portion 1-3 elk units for larger old (7-8 year old) bulls, and several LE draws for bulls in the 300 inch class range. In addition, though I wanted an archery unit with a rut hunt, I do support others who want other ways to hunt, and this providing me with 4 units, while keeping other opportunities for other hunters is a good option for all hunters in our state. Thanks for listening to us, and for trying to make some opportunities that support all types of hunting.

I wanted to provide some feedback for the Morgan area in particular, as I have hunted that area for my entire life. I'm currently 36.

Based on your numbers, and your graphs, I think the population of 12,000 to 14,000 has shown some of the best hunting we have had on both public and private lands in the area.

From the years of 2002 to 2008 we would see more deer, with several "decent" bucks.

From 2008 to 2014 we would see a lot of deer, and most importantly we would see a lot of large deer. Harvesting some years multiple 4 point, and good sized 4 point or bigger was common.

The last few years finding a single 4 point while walking a total of 30+ miles has been common.

I fully support trying to keep the population between 12,000 and 16,000 based on my in field experience combined with your numbers. I think this provides a good number of deer to find, and seemed to allow good health and growth.

I am basing my comments by looking at the numbers and graphs provided by the DNR in combination of the hunting experiences of my friends and family as they relate.

I can't speak with Chalk Creek unit 6, as I have done very little hunting to that section of the unit.

I oppose the change to unlimited amount of permits for Any Bull Elk. The COVID pandemic has sent more people than ever into these areas and mountains, and allowing an unlimited amount of people to hunt elk may be sustainable from a biological standpoint but it is not sustainable for our landscape and our environment that we cherish. More people means more impact on our land. It is already plenty busy with the 15,000 allowed permits. We do not need more people in the mtns during the Elk seasons.

The general elk is already so crowded that if you have unlimited tags this hunt will be degraded to the point no one wants to go. i have been hunting elk on the general season units for 30 plus years and the amount of pressure on these units has never been higher. The three season hunt has made all three hunts more crowded. Please look at how many people are on the uintas alone.

Offering unlimited number of any-bull elk permits will quickly ruin the Elk hunt like it has the deer hunt.
Mange the objectives rather than justifying the numbers for family time and strengthening heritage.
If there is a problem on the quantity of permits, please initiate a draw. It would be better to hunt every other year than to hunt with twice as many hunters and basically eliminate the opportunity for a harvest.
The data on this presentation seems way too old. On the UTAH STATEWIDE ELK MANAGEMENT PLAN the Statewide post-season elk population estimates data is through 2014, seems more current data should be used.
The elk herd and hunt is just starting to blossom and adding more permits seems to go against all the good work accomplished over the past few years in building the herds and objective.
It would be nice to have the harvest percentage of bulls tracked and available. Making these kinds of changes without this data seems to go against the objectives and numbers the division is trying to achieve.

Unlimited bull elk permits is excessive. As a biologist I don't see how this won't affect populations (even if most people aren't successful, if you increase tags you increase harvests). Also I can see this as a big safety concern, as you will have more and more people crowding popular spots throwing bullets at elk haphazardly. Even with limited tags my friends and I have had instances where we unknowingly ended up between hunters and elk, where some hunters didn't hesitate to take shots even though it was unsafe. With unlimited tags this will just get worse.

This will lead to increased tension and new permanent blinds should not be constructed on public land as per the original agreement. Do not make this amendment it will not satisfy the objective of protecting the public good and will decrease safety and the precedent is a slippery slope at best. The public marshlands should not be newly purposed for private enterprise.

I would like to first thank everyone that sacrifices their own time to serve on the RACS and to the employees at the DWR for their efforts in trying to balance the biology & science with the public demand. It is a thankless job that you're never going to be able to please everyone. I have a couple concerns regarding the proposed changes & amendments & one recommendation.

1. I absolutely oppose the recommendation for general season & muzzleloader (and 3 season) unlimited elk tags in the general OTC units. I can respect that this is a tougher hunt and that it doesn't sound like there's a concern to herd objectives. I also appreciate the desire to give Utah hunters the opportunity, but equally important is the experience. There are regular complaints all over social media about the crowds out in the field & this isn't just on the any weapon & muzzleloader but archery as well. To allow unlimited tags, to many, looks like nothing more than a money grab that will only compound the crowding problem. I would propose the division increases the tag numbers to account for the few additional units being added but unlimited tags opens the door to unintended consequence that is more dangerous to the future & opportunities we already have.

2. I am greatly concerned with the dates being proposed for the Utah Archery hunt (& as I understand other proposed amendment's from the public) and as it's currently proposed oppose these changes without certain provisions & protections made to ensure the opportunity & experience for resident hunters. I have been and still am an advocate of giving archery hunters the opportunity to hunt rutting elk through all of September on OTC units. I've even been to prior RAC meetings & made public comment in support of this change. While I still want this opportunity in Utah, my mind was opened or slightly changed due to having the opportunity to hunt rutting elk out of state (in area with no wolfs or grizzlies) for the first time in my life. There are some very significant consequences probably most resident hunters aren't aware, and that I wasn't aware of, unless they've had the opportunity to hunt out of state in September. I'm sure if you surveyed Utah archery elk hunters I would bet that the reason most are in favor of this change is because they want the opportunity & experience of hunting rutting, bugling elk. I get it, there are very few things that give that same kind of rush of having a screaming bull charging in. The problem that I didn't realize & saw first hand is that these states & units are getting busier & busier each year as people are chasing that experience. Throw in every Dick & Jane going out their to try & hunt like they're favorite Youtuber and you end up with an overcrowded bunch of Doug Flutie's that cause the elk to go silent. It eliminates the very experience we all desire. My concern isn't about losing that experience due to resident hunting pressure. If that happens so be it. My concern is the rush of non-resident hunters this will bring to the state. The 2 biggest determining factors for archery hunters when going out of state is cost & the opportunity to hunt rutting elk. Utah is now the cheapest state for non-residents to purchase a tag, combine that with the reduction in non-res tags and increased costs in surrounding states, and throw in extended archery dates (even if it's just the 3rd week), and we're going to have a major mess on our hands. I fear the unintended consequences that the Division will start hearing about when the season roles around next year will be significant. I'm sure wildlife management divisions in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, & Colorado can tell you about the resident complaints they get. Non-resident fees I understand our a significant revenue stream but as a resident it's not worth giving up the current opportunity or experience. I think most residents would rather pay a little more for a tag then ruin the experience due non resident hunters. I propose if the dates are changed to the proposed dates or possibly extended there needs to possibly be limit on the number of non-res tags for general units (currently no archery limits & proposed no limits on any season) or a significant increase to non-res tags that are equal to or more than other states in the west. I've read some people on social media saying make the change & fix the problems later but I think that mindsight is extremely dangerous and the unintended consequences may not be able to be undone for years to come if ever.

I am curious to know if there's been conversation around some other concerns that haven't been addressed in these proposals. For example, do you limit the number of 3 season tags to limit the added pressure? Is it time or worth creating an A or B tag like some other states do (possibly in lieu of the 3 season tag) that give additional dates to hunt & that possibly requires someone that buys an archery tag to pick between spike or general any bull units?

One last thing I think should needs to be discussed for changes & consideration the youth any bull hunt. There's only 450-500 tags each year designated to this hunt and over 6K or 7K applicants. If unlimited tags are approved, do the number of these tags increase? If a youth doesn't harvest an elk, should that tag be good for the general any weapon hunt? Lastly, these tags should only be going to Utah resident youth. I've seen & heard of non-resident youth hunters obtaining these tags which is an absolute shame. No resident youth hunter should be losing their opportunity to a non resident youth hunter.

Thanks for reading my concerns and again for your time.

If I recall Chad was new to this position as of last year. I really appreciate the work he's done and what appears to be bringing tag allocations in line. Last year he spoke about certain CWMU's having public land included in their boundaries that is accessible to the public and the need to review those boundaries and make changes or seek land trades or compensation in those situations. Has there been any progress with this and if so can something be posted making the public openly aware of any of these changes?

I have great respect for landowners and their property rights. Having helped on my grandfathers ranch when I was younger I somewhat understand the problems & vandalism they deal with. But I oppose any LOA tag that takes away an opportunity to the general public unless the public is compensated fairly. Those tags, which is a public resource, are given away with little or no compensation to the public and in most cases are sold for thousands. Additionally, many these LOA's & other land owners don't allow the public to access their land when they have a depredation problem. They should either pay a significant premium for those tags (cost of the tag plus additional premium), giving access to their property when they call for a depredation issue, or paying for the cost of depredation.

I'm also significantly opposed to the proportion of tags given to Diamond Mtn for the same concerns regardless of any prior deals made. Who knows when & why these deals were made & what back room favors were pulled. It's not fair to other LOA's to have to be held to other standards and it's not fair to the public. The public should be compensated for these tags, given access for depredation control efforts, or pay for the depredation costs.

I oppose the unlimited general any bull elk tags. These are already high hunter pressured hunts with low success. Pressure increased significantly when multi season permits were opened with the limited amount of elk available. This new proposal will just make things more crowded and elk numbers will not be sustainable with the pressure. If it is a software/purchasing issue then do general elk draw just like our general deer tags.

I strongly oppose allowing permanent blinds to be built on the Willard Spur. With the lake as dry as it is, birds have fewer and fewer places to rest. Big bodies of open water, like the spur, create excellent resting opportunities for migrating waterfowl. With limited cover to hide in, the only way hunters can hunt is layout boats which so few have. With blinds all a crossed the wma, birds will no longer have a place to rest and will leave the spur much sooner. It would be a waste of resource on the valuable and essential sago pondweed. The spur is one of the best places in Utah for sago, and with blinds being built all throughout it and birds being pressured , the birds will leave and wasted sago will be present. Another issue is who will maintain these blinds? Who proposed this idea? There's lots of unanswered questions. Many of us hunters are worried sick this might lead to a blind draw system like California has and will ultimately ruin the sport of waterfowl hunting, and the current rest pond systems we have throughout the great state of Utah. OPPOSE this!!!
